Research & Analysis Agent

diagnostic.competitive_research — segment batch: hvac / chicago

SEGMENT RESEARCH HVAC is an urgency-driven, trust-first category — most searches happen during a breakdown. Financing visibility, licensing/insurance badges, and same-day availability messaging convert disproportionately well versus general service pages.	LOCAL COMPETITION (CHICAGO, HVAC) - ChiTown Comfort Systems — online booking, live chat, financing calculator - Windy City HVAC Pros — strong review carousel, no online booking - North Side Air & Heat — dated site, no mobile optimization (opportunity)
NATIONAL BEST PRACTICES (SAME VERTICAL) One Hour Heating & Air-style trust badges above the fold	INDUSTRY-AGNOSTIC DESIGN MINING DTC home-services: before/after visual proof carousels

- Membership/maintenance-plan CTA as a secondary conversion path
- Instant financing pre-qualification widget

- Review-platform widgets embedded live, not screenshots
- Sticky mobile "Call Now / Book Now" bar (borrowed from restaurant-reservation UX)

FUNNEL / LEAD-CAPTURE ASSESSMENT

No funnel exists — no site means no lead form, no scheduling widget, no lead magnet. 2 of 3 local competitors have online booking; the account currently relies entirely on phone calls sourced from its Google listing.

Own-site score: N/A (no website)

Gap vs. national: 100% (full loss)

Gap vs. local: ~65% (2 of 3 competitors rank for core terms)

- No website means zero organic or map-driven web traffic capture is possible — modeled as full benchmark loss, not skipped.
- Estimated 400-600 monthly searches ("hvac repair chicago," "furnace repair near me," "ac installation [neighborhood]") are currently going entirely to competitors with a site.
- ChiTown Comfort Systems and Windy City HVAC Pros both hold page-1 rankings for the account's core service terms in its own service area.

Discoverability Agent

diagnostic.discoverability_audit + review_state

LOCAL PACK (GOOGLE MAPS / GBP)

- GBP found and claimed; primary category correctly set to "HVAC contractor."
- NAP consistency: 65/100 — phone number listed differently on one directory (Yelp shows an old number).
- Appears in map pack for branded searches only, not for "hvac repair near

AEO (ANSWER ENGINE OPTIMIZATION)

- Structured content score: 0 — no site, no schema possible (FAQPage/LocalBusiness both absent by definition).
- Brand-mention footprint: low. Found on 2 review platforms, zero Reddit/forum presence, zero guest-content mentions.

me" — losing the map pack to the 2 competitors with stronger review velocity.

- An AI answer engine asked "best HVAC company in Belmont Cragin" would currently have nothing to cite for this business at all.

REVIEW STATE

62 reviews · 4.7 avg rating · ~3 new reviews/month · 15% owner response rate. Rating and count are genuine strengths — the gap is entirely in visibility and response consistency, not review quality itself.

PITCH SUMMARY

Lakeside Heating & Air has a strong reputation (4.7★, 62 reviews) but no website at all — every dollar of organic search, map-pack, and AI-answer-engine demand in its category is currently going to two local competitors instead. At an estimated 400-600 monthly searches for core service terms in its own service area, even a conservative capture rate puts $3,200-$7,800/month of reachable revenue on the table before any paid marketing spend.

Outreach Sequence

To: lakesideheatingair@example.com · Subject: Quick question about Lakeside Heating & Air's website

Hi there — I came across Lakeside Heating & Air while looking at HVAC companies in Belmont Cragin. Your reviews are genuinely excellent (4.7★ across 62 of them), which is rarer than it sounds.

One thing stood out: you don't have a website right now, and two of your closest competitors do — both show up ahead of you for searches like "hvac repair near me" in your own service area. Based on local search volume, that's likely $3,000-$8,000 a month in jobs going to them instead of you.

I build websites specifically for HVAC and home-service businesses — flat $199, live in about a week, built around what's actually working for the best HVAC sites nationally right now. Worth a 10-minute call this week?

STRATEGY

Positioning: the trusted neighborhood HVAC company with the reviews to prove it, easy to book same-day. Primary CTA: phone call / instant booking. Secondary: maintenance-plan signup.

ARCHITECTURE

Hero (trust + urgency) → Services grid → Live review carousel → Service-area map → Financing/membership block → Sticky mobile call bar → Contact/book form.

UI/UX

Navy + amber palette (trust + warmth), bold condensed headline type, photo-led hero with a real technician image, high-contrast CTA buttons, sticky "Call Now" bar on mobile.

COPY (HEADLINE SAMPLE)

"Belmont Cragin's most-reviewed HVAC company — now online." Subhead: "62 five-star neighbors can't be wrong. Same-day service, honest pricing, no surprises." CTA: "Book a same-day visit."
